ANIMAL ABUSE

Animal abuse is when an individual harm an animal in a cruel way and shows no responsibility on taking care of them. U.S. is one of the countries with the most reported abuse on animal abuse. Animal Cruelty is a 3rd Degree Felony with a fine up to $10,000 and/or imprisonment up to 5 years in the US (punishments may differ for different states). Animal abuse occurs also in different countries around the globe. They would be Netherlands, Romania, Greece, Australia, Japan, and China.

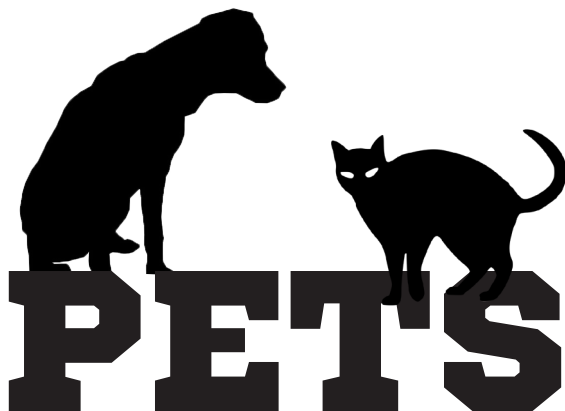

Animal Abuse can have many definite definitions . People do it for fun or some may have anger problems and might take it on the animal. People also do it because they like to see the pain of an animal. There's no absolute reason why one should harm an animal but these are few of them. Abusing an animal can consist of providing little attention and lacking care for them. Offering them no shelter and no food are also an act of cruelty. Abandoning an animal is one of the cruel act reported in the US.

Starting with our pets, no matter what kind of animals it is; dogs, cats, rabbits, hamsters, or birds, they all need to be taken care of and love them as they are part of one's family. Neglecting animals is considered abuse and it's ruining the society. Hurting them and abandoning can have a huge impact on the animal.

Abandoning a pet is one of the cruel act reported in the US. Physical actions are the main act of abuse, such as kicking, throwing, punching, or any other act that can cause the animal to feel pain. Animal abuse can extend more than just hitting a pet. It could also occur in farms. The mistreatment for the farm animals are considered to be animal cruelty.

FARM

For farm animals, there's nothing wrong killing cows, pigs, or chickens for their meat, however, they need to be raised properly and abusing them is such an unnecessary act to do. Kicking them, crowding them up in one small area, cutting their beaks, throwing them across the room, separating a cub from their parent, killing chicks right away they're born, feeding animals the wrong food, injecting antibiotics, putting them in an unsanitary area, are all considered abuse. These animals feel the pain and it's a sad view. There are numerous videos that show how farmers treat their animals and most of them show no care at all. Farm animals are the most abused animals in the US and across the world. These animals deserve to be outside with fresh air and being treated with tender care.

- 70.1% involved dogs. 20.9% involved cats. 24.1% involved other animals in the US.
- At least 115 million animals are used in experiments every year around the world.
- Top 10 animal testing countries are USA, Japan, China, Australia, France, Canada, UK, Germany, Taiwan and Brazil.
- 1 Billion Rabbits are killed for fur each year.
- 90% of broiler chicken i.e. chicken meant for meat production have trouble walking due to genetic manipulation.
- Puppy mills are facilities that breed puppies in inferior conditions and sell them in commercial markets. There are more than 5,000 puppy mills in U.S.
- Over 2 million cats and dogs are killed for their fur in China and Hong Kong.
- The cheapest and cruelest killing methods for fur farmers are suffocation, electrocution, gassing and poisoning.
- More than 50% the fur in the US comes from China, where millions of dogs and cats are often bled to death and skinned alive for their fur.

FACTS

MY OPINION

Animal abuse for me is a huge social issue because it doesn't only affects us with our conscious telling us it's wrong, but it also affects the animals. Some of us would think that animals don't feel emotions and they're not humans, but the truth is, these animals feel care, love, hate, and pain. You can see it by just looking at their eyes. An animal can feel and they express it heavily physically. Animal abuse needs to stop because animals are part of our society. Seeing them in pain and neglected is a heartbreaking sight. They are one of the wonders that the mother nature has given us and we need to treat them with care and love.

HELP

In the US, 43 out of 50 states have created animal abuse a felony and punishments are crucial. ASPCA, also known as American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to the Animals, is a well known program that assists those animals who are abused in the US. They would go across the country and take any abandoned animals on the streets back to a shelter. They would also offer medications to any wounded animals. They also take actions on reported animal abuse.

To help these poor animals, you can start now by just :

- Spread the awareness on animal abuse, via Instagram, Facebook, Twitter, and Snapchat. Many people witness animal cruelty and know how it really is.
- Show videos and exposw many of those who abuses animals can convince many of the population and consider taking a stand on animal abuse.
- Teach those people how to take care of their pets and teach them what is right and wrong to do to an animal.
- Create a movement against animal abuse. Protests and movements can cause many operations, such as farms and fur corporations.
